June 26 – July 1, 2005
Join rising juniors and seniors, as well as recent high school graduates, on an exploration of personal growth, civic responsibility, and leadership theory. In small groups, students will be challenged and supported on various levels of leadership. Students will participate in an altruistic learning experience from start to finish, meet with community leaders, and discuss the effective characteristics of leadership. By the awards banquet, students will have developed both as individuals and as a team; they will leave this experience as stronger leaders and citizens.

Personal Growth

Every day students face decisions, rights and wrongs, and multiple truths. Through self-exploration and hands on activities, students will be asked to question their own thought processes and actions. Students will move through a dialectic approach of problem solving to pluralistic, open-minded discussions. Students will recognize their strengths, improve their weaknesses, and grow as leaders.

Civic Responsibility

Altruism and public service comes through strong leadership and values. Understanding a commitment to others and incorporating that selflessness into your ways shows the markings of true leadership. The role the individual plays within society is often overlooked. Students will have the opportunity to serve the community and learn how their individual support betters the whole. Community leaders will meet with the students to discuss how they have led a life of service.

Leadership Theory

Leadership development comes in multiple forms and applies on various levels. Throughout the Leadership Journey, students will explore leadership from group dynamics and conflict resolution to diversity appreciation, creating vision, and becoming a social change agent. Developing as a leader involves knowing the theory behind your actions and growing as an individual, all while empowering the people who surround you.
